Spotlight on: Maggy Kimathi. Home manager.

What do you enjoy most about working at Sage?

I mostly enjoy the calm friendly environment that is Sage and the continuous presence of community around the home. I enjoy the daily celebration of life for our residents. I also enjoy having conversations emanating from both ends of the divide, driving an approach that is challenging but fulfilling.

What is your favourite part of your role as manager?

My favourite part of my role is to see residents being fully engaged in activities and leading fulfilling lives in a home-away -from home. It is also in the daily staff wins, their teamwork gains, linking their work standards to patient outcomes, embracing change and eventually witnessing some staff members 'stepping up' as an outcome.

What makes Sage special to you?

Sage is special to me because there is dedication like I have never witnessed anywhere else. The doctors who serve sage are very self-giving, drop everything at a call to give the best to the residents. The community is always here with and for us. The volunteers are with us daily, the school children, and everyone who comes through the doors have one goal, to be helpful and kind. The team spirit and the effortless way the staff members go over and beyond daily, the joy with which everyone does their duties and the joy when residents turn around and start getting better is something of awe.

What did you want to be when you were growing up?

Growing up, I wanted to be an astronaut.

What always makes you smile?

I always smile when new residents and relatives go over the period of settling in and no longer feel anxious. I also smile when staff members gain their full potential through being offered opportunities or being seen for what they can do best.

What three words would your friends or family use to describe you?

Kind, Resilient, Composed.
